2 Preventing Domestic Violence

3 People of all race, education levels, and ages experience domestic abuse. “In the United 4 states, more than five million women are abused by an intimate partner each year”. Many 5 children grow up in a toxic home, where domestic violence occurs on a daily basis. These youth 6 eventually go into a relationship thinking violence is okay. Later, they are beaten up and 7 eventually cause a stress-disorder and suicidal thoughts. Many women have got helped to 8 prevent domestic some got free and others continued the violence at home. So instead of 9 ignoring the issue of domestic, we should provide the victims with love and care so that they can 10 break through the cycle of domestic violence.

11 Protective orders are designed for people experiencing family abuse. Family abuse is an 12 act of violence that results in physical injury. Protective orders are one quick way that can get 13 you help. They are free of charge, you can fill it out online it just asked simple questions and in 14 minutes the order is placed. It stop’s the abuser from having any contact with the victim. The 15 police will give the victim temporary possession of the residence, grant them the possession of 16 the motor vehicle so that the victim and children will be provided with a home and car. The 17 abuser usually doesn’t come back until the order is expired, but some don’t mind returning and 18 going to jail. The help is only temporary, so the victim might need different help.

19 Many women don’t like to move on they are to in love or just afraid to call the police.
20 There are many hotlines they can call to get help fast. Usually they direct them to a shelter for 21 somewhere to stay. Catholic Community Services in Western Arizona is granted here in Yuma 22 for any domestic violence abuse, men or women of any age. The shelter is a mission to end the 23 cycle of violence by providing a home, food, and prevention programs. “The shelter is free of 1 charge available in both English and Spanish”. This help is to get you away from the abuser by 2 providing many ways to forget the abuser. Victims will finally learn to be independent and move 3 on with their life’s, and become strong enough to overcome the past that has haunted them for 4 years. Children grow up seeing this violence and that is how domestic violence starts in a home 5 because parents have seen it at a young age.

6 Youth should not go through the violence that the parents give when they argue. It shows
7 that domestic violence is okay. Eventually, child abuse can and will happen. One research shows, 8 “the impact of children witnessing parental domestic violence is strikingly similar to the 9 consequences of being directly abused by a parent”. There are also many reports of women 10 getting murdered along with their children. So that means child abuse is rising quickly with the 11 “percentages of reports rising 6% each year”. Domestic violence programs around the country 12 are there for the victims. Maybe if parents get into these programs when their children are still 13 young, the percentage of domestic violence will drop.

14 To come with a conclusion for the issue on domestic violence has to come from 15 community and laws continuing to provide help for that in need because it will never stop 16 without the loving and caring for one another. We have to be strong and work together to get 17 over an issue that has been killing many innocent people. Putting all the criminals away who 18 harm the community can help the unity of family’s. Children is are main focused when it comes 19 to violence, so by leading them towards the right path we can have lesser issues with violence 20 occurring on a daily basis. Children are the future in our society and they eventually become 21 leaders to other youths that will be looking up to them. I believe America is the home of free not 22 the home of domestic violence. We have to think what we can do to stop the violence in America 23 for the future.
